

Jay Vonada is a jazz trombonist in central Pennsylvania. He has been called, “the hardest working trombonist in central PA”, by his colleagues.

He plays at restaurants, breweries, wineries, nursing homes, assisted living communities, independent living communities and many other venues that have live music. He is adept at being featured entertainment, background music, or setting the ambience for a particular occasion such as a wedding.

He attended Mansfield University from 1993–1997 studying jazz with Dr. Michael Galloway and trombone with Steve McEuen.
